

CURRICULUM VITAE

Reinhard Blasi is a market development officer at the European GNSS Agency (GSA) in charge of the EGNOS and Galileo market entry in the professional high-precision GNSS markets. He also oversees the Galileo Commercial Service definition from a market and user point of view.

Before his engagement with the GSA he has been working as a strategy consultant for various innovation projects.

Reinhard holds a degree in business administration and a master degree in international business studies conducted in the Universities of Paderborn (Germany), Lille (France), and Bologna (Italy).